

Litter: we're all paying for the clean-up

Litter on our streets forces local authorities to divert public money away from other public services like schools and roads.

Every year Scotland spends at least £46 million cleaning up after our litterers...

...that's around £20.00 for each taxpayer.

